The project aims to create a more participatory, effective, and accountable governance process in response to the need for civil society organizations and citizens to participate in the recent social reforms in Armenia. The project particularly intends to raise public awareness about these reforms and to set concrete milestones for engaging citizens and CSOs to comment on reform processes. At the end of the project, CSOs will be equipped to fully understand the new social policies and funding mechanisms. Government officials and citizens will regularly meet to discuss best practices for social reform.
